

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to air a John Kerry documentary is a clear example of free speech and should be protected by the FCC. Sinclair uses the public airwaves responsibly to serve the public interest. Because of them, we get more of what's good for our democracy. It's important that we see substantive news about issues that matter, particularly on differing points of view.
Thank You.